THE WASHINGTON correspondent of the Bosto revelations are leaking out here touching the revo-utionary schemes of the Radical leaders. It ha een discovered that the plan for Radical government and negro supremacy in the Southern States was conceeded and matured at the Convention of ast, in Philadelphia, where were present the Radical Governors of the several Northern States. It vas then and there determined to organize a revo-utionary army, which should hold the South under he control of the Radicals regardless of what night be the popular vote. It was also determined that E. M. Pease should by some means be placed at the bead of the State organization in Texas, and in obedience to this plot of the revolutionists Gen-

THE LONDON HERALD intimates that there are to be further trials with the American navy gun on trial at Shoeburyness. We should hope so. If the trial should end with the late experiments, the power of the gun would be as unknown to the British artillerists as it was three years ago. The reports of the greater part of the English press on this gun have been promature. Authing but mitial and very incomplete experiments have been made with it. Here, in America, we have fired it with 100 pounds of mammoth powder, and over 1500 feet velocity, while n England they have never used over 60 feet against the gun, obtaining less than 1200 feet against the target. If the trial should end now, it will be the coolest piece of jugglery on reompared with the American 15-inch smooth bore cord. The Woodwich 9-inch rifle gan was to b ot, indeed, against the same plate, but by a cor rast of results achieved. Into the torner was put thirds of the service charge for battle prescribed for three years in our navy. On this showing, it appears, the English gunners pronounce the American gun a "failure." Instead of ringing the smooth bore to a respectable charge of powde and then see what it will do.

The HERALDS CITY of MCACO COTESPONDENCE, dated July 29th, says that President JUANEZ had completed the formation of his new Cabinet. The whole country had been laid off into Military Districts, to which REGULES, DIAZ, ESCOREDO, CORO-NA and ALVANEZ, have been assigned in command. On the 15th of July the President was accorded an informal reception, which was rather an imbifer-ent affair, the people being conspicuously wanting

RADICALISM AND AGRARIANTSM.

Naroleon III., the profoundest statesman and ost successful politician of our day and generation, says, in his Life of Casan, that "the access of superior men depends much more on their ability to profit by circumstances than on that presumption sufficiently blind to make them believe themselves capable of causing events to be born which are in the hands of tion alone." We are all the creatures of circumstances, and the only difference between the great man and the small, is that the great man seizes the circumstance as it arises, while the ann of inferior capacity lets the opportunity slide away and allows himself to be left behind The fool alone thinks that he can create events or that he can prevent certain effects from folowing certain causes. The world moves by fixed laws. There is logic in events. It is easy to arouse passions, but it is impossible to prevent the consequences of those passions AARON BURR on one occasion expressed this idea strongly and forcibly. At the time of nulliication in this State he said to a gentleman from this city, "there are men enough in South Carolina who can raise a storm, but there is ot one in the State who can quell that storm when raised." The contest between the North and the South has terminated a giving a marked development to the theory of blind majorities. Under that theory minorities are entitled to no protection. They are defeated. They must be crushed. Carried out fully it means nothing more nor less than Vx Victis, woe to the con-quered. You are defeated, let the car pass over you. We are the majority. It is our will and pleasure. You should not complain. You made the fight and you are conquered. This may be right. This may be proper. This may be just. It certainly is not wise. To-day the victor tramples under foot his victim. Tomorrow, the victim having gained strength and learned the lesson from his conqueror, in turn plays tyrant and tramples on his former op growing out of the theory that the blind will of he majority is the law of the land. The first and necessary result is the total loss of liberty. This loss, it is true, takes the shape in the first place of despotism of the masses, but whereever that despotism exists the distance is not great from anarchy on the one hand, or one man power on the other. Our fathers foresaw They were not only wise men, but they were animated by pure and noble instincts. Well versed in the policy of the past they were determined to frame a government which would woid the shoals and quicksands on which other governments had been destroyed. They knew hat a race of born kings may become effete, and they determined that their chief executive officer should be elected. They knew that long ossession of power made men forget their responsibility to their fellow men, and they electol their president for a short term. They had seen oligarchies oppress the people, and they avoided anything approaching to aristocracy. They had seen turbulent democracies banish and estracise their noblest and best men, and they guarded jealously the rights and privileges of the humblest citizen. They had seen the had effects of the union of Church and State and they provided against the possible union of religion and politics. They knew that small States would certainly be oppressed by their stronger and more powerful neighbors, and they established a perfect equality in one branch of the legislature of the nation. Theirs was a government of perfect checks and balances in which the smallest minority was protected by a written constitution, from the nost powerful and passionate majority. Under that government three millions of people rapidly increase I ten-fold ; commerce, arts and the ciences flourished. Every man with health and industry found bread, and with ordinary prudence could lay up a surplus. Their government was loved at home and respected

Human vanity, however, and human passion can and often does destroy the noblest work. The war came and with the passions of the war the Radical party acquired power. Setting itself up for a teacher, arrogating to itself superior wisdom, rejecting the lessons of the past and the light of experience, it declared that change was progress; the Constitution of the United States an instrument which should only endure so long as the majority would permit, and that the will of a majority of the American people is the supreme law of the land. This is the policy now actuating the dominant party,-in nothing exaggerated. This is the platform laid down by the most prominent and certainly the most honest among their leaders. Let us see to what results this policy will lead unless the sober sense of the American people should in time drive back the current.

the dominant characteristic." This is rather hard, for people generally have believe that of late Mr. PHILLIPS friends at the capital had things pretty much their own way. Referring to the present situation, he says: "Congress, tongue-tied and There is a debt of near $3,000,000,000 to be paid. The population of the United States is 36,000,000. Of that 36,000,000 about a half million are owners of the debt. Suppose that each owner has a family of four persons in addition to himself, and we would have two million and a half of people enjoying the labor and the toil, and benefitting by the sweat of thirty-four million five hundred thousand. Majorities should rule, say the radicals. Their will is the Will it be the will of fourteen men, law. taught to believe that no social compact is binding any longer than the majority desires that it should bind, to labor for life for the support of one? If the radical theory is correct there can be no faith in politics; their own party must, as necessary consequence of their principles, advocate repudiation.

real or supposed characteristics of the adherents of the parties to whom they were applied, the term "Copperhead" had nothing to do with any craniological appearance of the political sect which One proof of this is to be found in Mr. THAD it described. The epithet "Copperhead" was ap-plied (it had its origin in Indiana) because of the STEVENS' "mild confiscation scheme"-extra constitutional as he admits it to be. Mild confiscation! God save the mark! One might as well speak of mild highway robbery, mild California, is r native of Rochester, New York, and is about forty-five years of age. He is a son of Flercusz M. ommon duty, common right and common jus tice pronounce them false; but we do say that they are the logical results of radical teaching The American people are thoroughly practical They are educated both to think and to ac rom the cradle to the grave. Educated to believe a theory, they will follow it out to its logical result. The truth of this has been recently illustrated. At the Chicago Labor Convention among other propositions was one to start a laboring men's policical party. If this means anything at all it means the array of labor against capital: the poor the majority, against the rich the minority. If the teachings of the radical party are true, those men were right. Agrariauism is just. Property is in the Will the American people ever come to this

Will they not reflect long before they adopt theories which must lead to these results. Labor and capital have clashed before to- 'ay, and the contest has been bitter and bloody Will not our people, when awakened to calm reason and sober sense reject a party whose teachings must inevitably produce such effects: Will they call anarchy improvement, despotism an advance, agrarianism progress? Will they follow those who wilfully reject the teaching of the past? Will they follow those who openly reject the plighted faith of a written constitu tion, handed down to us by Washington, Ham-ILTON, MADISON, JEFFERSON and ADAMS, or will they not rather adopt a conservativ course and follow those grand old patriots and eachers. We believe that they will choose the latter course. The masses, when not excited by the passion or the prejudice of the hour hink correctly and act honestly. They know, to borrow the words of him whom we quoted at the beginning of this article, "that when Provthis republic "it is that they may trace out to nations the path that they should follow: that they should stamp with the seul of their genius a new era; that they should accomplish in a few years the work of centuries.
